How the System Works

This automated pipeline identifies off-market businesses — companies that are NOT publicly listed for sale — and systematically engages their owners to gauge acquisition interest. The system runs across all 39 active buyers in parallel, outputting ready-to-send LinkedIn messages for each matched seller target.

Step	Action	Tool / Source	Output
1	Load buyer criteria	buyers_db.py	39 buyers structured
2	Search businesses by industry + geo	Apollo.io API	Company + owner data
3	Scrape public directories	Yelp, Yellow Pages, Manta	Business names + phones
4	Deduplicate & score leads	match_deals.py	Match scores 0–100
5	Generate outreach messages	message_generator.py + Claude AI	Per-lead LinkedIn messages
6	Export deliverables	create_outputs.py	Excel + PDF reports
7	Send LinkedIn outreach	You or VA (manual)	Seller responses
8	Qualify interested sellers	Phone call / NDA	Confirmed seller pipeline
9	Introduce to buyer	Broker facilitated	Deal flow + closed transactions

LinkedIn Outreach Message Framework

Each identified seller receives two pre-written LinkedIn messages: a short connection request note and a full InMail. Messages are personalized per industry and company. The tone is deliberately curiosity-driven — never mentioning buying/selling directly in the initial connection.

Principle	Why It Works
Never say 'buy your business' in first contact	Triggers defensiveness. Lead with market intel.
Create curiosity: 'buyers in your space'	They want to know who — opens conversation.
Keep connection request under 280 chars	LinkedIn limit. Short = more likely to be accepted.
InMail focuses on seller value, not buyer need	Seller asks 'what's in it for me?' Answer it first.
End with single low-commitment CTA	'15-minute call' is easy to say yes to.
Personalize with company name + industry	Generic messages get ignored. Specifics get read.
Follow up ONCE at day 7 if no response	More than once = spam. Once = professional persistence.

Example: Full InMail Message

Hi Randy,

My name is Jordi Quevedo-Valls and I represent pre-qualified buyers actively acquiring home services businesses across TX.

I came across Lone Star HVAC Services and wanted to reach out directly — we have a buyer specifically looking for established businesses like yours. They're serious, funded, and can close without bank financing.

Even if you're not actively thinking about selling right now, many business owners find it valuable to understand what their business is worth and what a transition could look like — with no obligation.

Would you be open to a 15-minute confidential conversation to explore?
